REVIVAL MEETINGS BEGUN.

Rev. Mr. Carradine Conducts Services Until January 12.

Three enthusiastic revival meetings were held in Pythian Temple yesterday, under the auspices of the Pentecostal Church.

The Rev. Beverley Carradine, speaker and author, of St. Louis, who has been actively engaged in evangelistic work in connection with the Southern Methodist Church for many years, was the chief speaker, and the series of meetings, which will extend until January 12, were auspiciously begun.

At the afternoon meeting Dr. Carradine chose as his text "The Baptism of Fire." He said:

"This is the narration of a great transforming experience of one of the best of the prophets. It reads and sounds like an experience, and it came to one who was already a saved man—one possessing a deep knowledge and walking a close walk with God. There were circumstances and steps which, under God, led this man to a baptism with fire. One was the death of the King. Another was his location, &c."

Dr. Carradine selected the striking points of the passages, and dwelt upon them at length.

Meetings will be held each week-day, mornings at Pentecostal Hall, Ninth and D streets northwest, and evenings except Saturdays, at Pythian Temple.

CHILDREN IN A PROCESSION

Participate in Forty Hours' Adoration at St. Aloysius Church.

Carry Banners Expressive of Homage—Rev. Father H. A. Leary Celebrant of Solemn High Mass.

Forty hours' adoration began yesterday in St. Aloysius Church with the celebration of solemn high mass of exposition at 10 o'clock.

Rev. Father Henry A. Leary, S. J., was celebrant of the mass; Rev. Father John B. Kelleher, S. J., deacon, and Rev. Richard A. O'Brien, S. J., subdeacon.

At the conclusion of the mass the blessed sacrament was carried in solemn procession by the celebrant of the mass through the aisles of the church. Several hundred children took part in the procession. Tiny tots, dressed in white, with wreaths of lilies of the valley on their heads, walked immediately after the cross-bearer. They followed many girls and boys, attired also in white, bearing handsome banners and appropriate symbols.

Each child in the line carried clusters of white roses, lilies, or narcissus. The banners bore inscriptions expressive of adoration and homage—"Ecce Panis Angelorum," "Panis Vere," "Calix Benedictus," "O Salutaris Hostia," "Unigenitus Domini," "Fons Amoris Perpetua," "Ecce Agnus Dei," &c., painted on white satin.

Sixteen little girls scattered rose leaves, pausing at intervals for genuflection before the Sacred Host. Last in the line walked the faithful band of servers, "The Little League of the Blessed Sacrament," their positions forming a cross.

Immediately preceding the blessed sacrament came eight censer-bearers, and the reverend clergy—Rev. Father Joseph Himmell, S. J.; Rev. Father P. T. McCarthy, S. J.; and Rev. Father Timothy Barrett, S. J.

Benediction of the blessed sacrament was given by Father Leary; Father Kelleher as deacon, and Rev. R. A. O'Brien, subdeacon, after which the Litany of the Saints was chanted by the officiating clergy and the choir.

High mass will be sung this morning at 9 o'clock, and solemn high mass of reposition to-morrow morning at the same hour.

The devotion will conclude to-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock with solemn procession and benediction of the blessed sacrament, and "Te Deum" services, celebrating the closing of the year.

READY FOR SEATTLE

East Does Not Like Expositions, Says Westerner.

EXPLOITER AT THE RALEIGH

Declares Attendance at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Fair in Summer of 1909 Will Run Over 2,000,000, and Describes Appropriations of State Legislatures for the Plans.

"The East doesn't care much for expositions, and consequently the one at Jamestown was a failure," said Henry E. Reed, director of exploitation of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, at the Raleigh, yesterday.

"Jamestown, I believe, advertised that it had within a short radius 21,000,000 people. Portland, which made a success of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, had but 5,000,000 people within a radius of 1,000 miles. The attendance at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, however, was considerably more than that at Jamestown. "The attendance at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, which will be held in Seattle in the summer of 1909, will, it is conservatively estimated, run over 2,000,000, and consequently the fair will be a success."

Ready for Seattle.

Mr. Reed said that already a fair proportion of the Western States have, through their legislatures, appropriated thousands of dollars for State buildings and exhibits at the Seattle Exposition. Representatives of the fair are now in the East, and it is probable that several of the Eastern States will contribute in the way of appropriations.

Mr. Reed was secretary and director of exploitation of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, and has been a close student of great expositions which have been held in this country at irregular periods in the last twenty years. He said that the Portland affair, while not, perhaps, so successful as that of Philadelphia or Omaha, in a few respects, was nevertheless a remarkable one in some ways.

Seattle's attempt along the fair line will, however, surpass that of Portland. It will draw together peoples from all parts of the earth in one of the first expositions of such varied character ever attempted.

Congress, Mr. Reed said, will not be asked to loan any money to the Seattle exposition, but will be requested to pass a bill appropriating something over a million dollars for buildings and exhibits. It is desired that all the territories outside of the United States proper, such as Alaska, Hawaii, and the Philippines, have buildings and exhibits at Seattle.

Washington So Attractive.

"One reason why the Jamestown Exposition fell so flat," said Mr. Reed, "was that great numbers of people found Washington too attractive to bother with seeing the fair. All the government's exhibits at Jamestown were previously to be seen in the departments and institutions of the Capital."

"With a fair in Seattle, however, this condition will be altered. There will be exhibits of things that probably have never been seen before outside of their original surroundings."

"The people of the Western States will all respond to our request for buildings and exhibits. California, Washington, Oregon, Utah, and a few others have already appropriated money for these purposes. Montana, Colorado, Idaho, and the rest are expected to fall in line this year, and when it is time to reckon up those States which will be represented there will, most likely, be fifteen or possibly a few more."
